

AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EDUCATION

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

April 21, 2009

U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C. 20515

Dear Representative:

This week, conferees will begin work to resolve the differences between the House and Senate versions of the Fiscal Year (FY) 2010 Concurrent Budget Resolution. As this process begins, the higher education associations listed below strongly urge the adoption of a budget resolution that moves funding for the Pell Grant Program from the discretionary to the mandatory side of the budget ledger. We ask the conferees to embrace the House version of the resolution and to instruct the authorizing committees to work to achieve this important goal.

We believe that Congress has been given a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to breathe new life into the Pell Grant Program and renew its goal of assuring that every student who has, in the words of former President Lyndon Johnson, "the grades, the desire, and the will, but not the money, can still get the best education possible." That goal can only be reached by creating a Pell Grant entitlement that would bring important stability and predictability to the program for low- and middle-income students. In addition to benefitting students who already have college in their sights, an entitlement would reach well beyond them to others at risk of dropping out of high school by allowing them to know the size of the Pell Grant they could expect to receive in a future year.

The opportunity to convert to a full mandatory program this year is most advantageous as the projected savings from the conversion to a Direct Loan Program and the projected costs of Pell are at their most optimal levels. The confluence of these factors has not happened before and is not likely to happen again. The Congressional Budget Office has identified $94 billion in savings that could be derived from ending the Federal Family Education Loan (FFEL) Program and allowing the Direct Loan Program to assume the full federal student loan portfolio. As you are aware, this proposal has sparked controversy and debate because it asks colleges and universities to forgo longstanding lending arrangements that have worked successfully in favor of a system with which some are unfamiliar. Enthusiastic testimonials from institutions that have happily made the switch to the Direct Loan Program have helped, but have not entirely assuaged these concerns. However, although many of our institutions remain wary of this change, they are open to considering it in order to secure an authentic Pell Grant entitlement—a realization that is heightened by the knowledge that the program's annual infusion of mandatory funding is set to expire in 2012. Unless the program is made a true entitlement, it will face a funding cliff in FY 2013 that will put tremendous pressure on the appropriations process to find $4-5 billion above the usual and necessary appropriated level to ensure that a significant reduction in the maximum award does not occur.

April 21, 2009

A program redesign of this magnitude will require extensive changes to the federal grant and loan programs that have effectively served students for several decades, and the nature of these changes is of great interest to our colleges and universities. We would welcome the opportunity to assist you in the development of policies that will best meet the needs of students and their families. We urge the conferees to adopt an agreement that instructs the authorizing committees to give further consideration to creating a Pell Grant entitlement, and we look forward to an ongoing dialogue with you and your staff on these issues in the coming months.

Sincerely,

Molly Corbett Broad
President

MCB/ldw

On behalf of:

ACPA - College Student Educators International
American Association of Colleges of Nursing
American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers
American Association of Community Colleges
American Association of State Colleges and Universities
American Council on Education
American Dental Education Association
American Indian Higher Education Consortium
Association of American Universities
Association of Governing Boards of Colleges and Universities
Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities
Association of Public and Land-grant Universities
Association of Research Libraries
College and University Professional Association for Human Resources
Council of Independent Colleges
EDUCAUSE
Hispanic Association of Colleges and Universities
National Association for College Admission Counseling
National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education
National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators
National Collegiate Athletic Association
United States Student Association
University Continuing Education Association
Women's College Coalition